WOULD A GOOD CARPENTER
Try to smooth a box with an ax? He would not try. Neither would a competent Otician try to fit glasses without proper instruments. Why do they try? Because they are not competent and do not understand the necessity of a properly equipped room for eye examinations. You cannot expect beneficial results from such examinations. I have the only properly equipped examination room in El Paso.
I give satisfactory results WHEN

BOYCOTT CASE
IS THROWN OUT
Labor Leaders Will Now

Terms.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—
The "boycott" case of the Buck's Store and Range company of St.
Louis, against the American Federation of Labor, came to a dramatic close in the supreme court of the United States today, as the court deciding it was a question it would not hear. The defendants must go to jail to serve out the terms imposed by the lower court.

BELL'S POETRY IS READ TO JURY HEARING HIS CASE IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 27.—Poetry, written by the accused, and a "Bill Yegg" letter, received by his friend and attorney, formed the most interesting parts of the testimony offered by the defense today in the trial of Frank M. Bell, accused of murdering O. P.
Widaman, his former attorney.

Several of his poems were read to the jury, the most striking being entitled "The Shame of the Day." It follows in part:

"Her face was her fortune and so she smiled, and she stood by the penitent sea; and really and truly you'd call her worth while, with her wonderful grace and tender beguile, and the sheen of her girlish glee."

After that stanza another of similar nature followed, the praise of the girl, supposed to be his wife, being unstinted.

Another verse treating of his great joy when he became a father, is between the last and the following: She ate of the greed that was born of her kin, and he was the sacrifice.
The dagger he carried with his law, figured in; and all that they did was but reeking with sin. Her soul was the price of his fee; they left him a wreck, with his hope in a grave, and she is the shun of the day, and the child bears the scar that he could not save; but there is not a law for the "honorable knave, who ruins the home when he may."

The verses bear the date of February 10, 1910.
J. L. Fleming also read to the jury an anonymous threatening letter.
He had received it as one of several that attempted to prevent him befriending Bell.

C. E. Potts, a private detective, took the stand and admitted that he had once told Bell that Widaman had declared he either would kill him or put him in the penitentiary.

Chas. Loomis, an attorney of El Paso, Texas, said he had served as Bell's attorney and had tried to settle his affairs with his wife. He also told of going with Bell to ask a physician about Mrs. Bell and they had been told that she was likely to become a mother.
That was at a date long after Bell and his wife had ceased to live together.

F. J. Fleming, a dining car conductor, testified that he had told Bell he had seen Mrs. Bell and Widaman leave the Poinsettia lodging house on Spring street together.
